

This week's featured Texas performance comes from the legendary Texas Tornados. This 2005 release features Doug Sahm, Freddy Fender, Augie Meyers and Flaco Jimenez at their best! Tune in to KBEC on August 21st at 7pm to hear the entire recording!

Here's what Allmusic.com has to say about it:

It's hard to imagine a band that was more perfectly suited for Austin, TX, than the Texas Tornados. Never mind the fact that two of the city's favorite sons, Doug Sahm and

Augie Meyers

, were members (and that the other key members,

Freddy Fender

and

Flaco Jimenez

, were equally beloved throughout the Lone Star State) -- in a city with as voracious and omnivorous an appetite for music as Austin, a band that could play rock, blues, country, norteño, swing, boogie, and on occasion all of them at once could only be regarded as a blessing, and when

the Texas Tornadoes

appeared on the great PBS music series Austin City Limits for a Fall 1990 taping, a wildly enthusiastic audience turned out to see the not yet year-old band.

Live from Austin, TX

preserves the full, unedited 75-minute set

the Tornadoes

played that evening, and the band is on fire from start to finish. What was special about

the Tornadoes

wasn't just that they could play

Jimmy Reed

blues, hard country weepers, Farfisa-fueled garage rock, and Mexican folk tunes within the course of a set, but that they played them all with the same fire and passion, and made them sound like they all belonged on the same sonic menu. For an hour and a quarter, you get to hear do just that for an audience who were obviously loving what they were hearing, and that makes this disc a wonderful posthumous tribute to the genre-shattering joy they made their bread and butter.

the Texas Tornadoes

Track Listing:

1. Soy De San Luis

2. A Man Can Cry

3. (Hey Baby) Que Paso

4. Laredo Rose

5. Ay Te Dejo En San Antonio

6. Cancion Mixteca

7. Dinero

8. Mathilda

9. Adios Amigos

10. She Never Spoke Spanish To Me

11. Only One

12. Mendocino

13. Wasted Days and Wasted Nights

14. Baby What You Want Me To Do

15. If That's What You're Thinking

16. Who Were You Thinkin' Of

17. Before The Next Teardrop Falls

18. She's About A Mover

19. 96 Tears